

Eastern Florida State College
ENC 1101 – Composition 1
Associate Professor Carol Harvest
Cocoa Campus

ADDENDUM TO COURSE SYLLABUS: Service Learning 4th credit option

ENC 1101

This is a 3 credit hour course. You qualify for graduation when several requirements are met, including total credit hours attempted and successfully completed. Therefore, through this Service Learning option, you can earn one more credit hour (given that you complete all the activities and assignments as detailed below)

THE EASTERN FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE CENTER FOR STUDENT LEARNING FACULTY PACKET
SUMMARIZES THE PROGRAM AS FOLLOWS:

Volunteer and service-learning experiences are reciprocally beneficial for both the community and students. For many community organizations, students augment service delivery, meet crucial human needs and provide a basis for future citizen support. For students, community service is an opportunity to enrich and apply classroom knowledge; explore careers or majors; develop civic skills; enhance personal growth and self-image; develop job links; and most of all foster in students a concern for social

- Begin by DESCRIBING the volunteer site: What activities did you participate in? What contribution(s) did you make? What duties did you perform, and for whom? Is the site what you expected? What took you "off guard" or otherwise left an impression?
- Now write about your IMPRESSIONS of the work. Be honest. Do you think the work was worthwhile? Use adjectives and adverbs. Was it boring? Eventful? Challenging? Provide your true thoughts about the experience.
- Did this experience change or otherwise impact your opinion(s) about 1) your community, 2) yourself, 3) your career path, 4) other issues? Be as specific as possible.
-